Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans, and Youth Rehabilitation

After I have read this Referral Directory: Services for Returned Migrants and Survivors of Trafficking, Cambodia 2012 I observe that this referral directory offers a lot of important information related to coordination and networking services, recovery and psychosocial support services, legal assistance, medical services, and skills training and job placement services in order to meet the needs of returned migrants and survivors of human trafficking who need to be reintegrated or returned to their communities.

This Referral Directory 2012 will be helpful to the society, ministries, national level social workers, regional level non-government organizations, border authorities, and community-based service providers that work with migrant workers and survivors of human trafficking to find appropriate referral services for their clients. At the same time, this directory may be a tool for migrant workers and survivors of human trafficking to find assistance themselves.

This Referral Directory 2012 will play an important part in achieving the Millennium Development Goals of Cambodia, and the Anti-Human Trafficking and Victim Reintegration programs of the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans, and Youth Rehabilitation, and the national strategic plans, especially the strategic plans related to promoting high living standards for Cambodian people, and reducing poverty through providing skills trainings.

I strongly believe that the Referral Directory 2012 will become an important tool for ministries, government institutions, and other related non-governmental organizations to help Cambodian people in a meaningful and effective way. On behalf of the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans, and Youth Rehabilitation, I would like to request all service providers to use this Referral Directory 2012 broadly and correctly in order to help returned migrant workers and survivors of human trafficking who need to be returned and/or reintegrated back into communities in Cambodia so they can receive the appropriate referral services at all times.

On behalf of the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans, and Youth Rehabilitation, I would like to give thanks to the National Working Group of the Ministry of Social Affairs, Veterans, and Youth Rehabilitation and Chab Dai Coalition who have coordinated and produced this Referral Directory 2012 with close cooperation with the National Committee to Lead the Suppression of Human Trafficking, Smuggling, Labor Exploitation and Sexual Exploitation in Women and Children, International Labour Organization (ILO), the Australian aid program, and other partner organizations.

REFERRAL DIRECTORY

Services for Returned Migrants and Survivors of Trafficking

Reintegrated survivors of human trafficking and migrants returning from overseas work often need access to a variety of services, including legal counseling and advice, job and life skills training, trauma recovery support, and intensive case management.

This Referral Directory 2012 is an important tool for national & regional social workers, border authorities, and community-based service providers working with Cambodian migrants & trafficked persons and aims to assist these stakeholders to make appropriate and effective referrals for their clients.

The Referral Directory 2012 specifically focuses on services available for migrants and/or survivors of human trafficking who have been reintegrated or returned home to their communities in Cambodia. Thus, the directory does not include those organizations offering only long-term shelter facilities, but focuses on community-based service providers. The directory includes the contact details and program descriptions of direct service providers, as well as the contact information for Cambodian embassies in the region and regional coalitions working to combat human trafficking.

For ease of reference, the referral directory is divided into four regions, with services in Phnom Penh listed separately. The booklet has been designed based on the idea that the community is the ideal place for holistic recovery and rehabilitation, and that both migrants and survivors of trafficking should be linked to services available in their own communities, or as close to there as possible. To further facilitate this, the beginning of each section includes a short summary of services in the region, as well as details on the nearest province where additional services are available.

The directory includes five categories of community services:

Coordination & Networking

Recovery and Psychosocial Support Services

Legal Assistance

Medical Services

Skills Training & Job Placement

Social service providers and first-responders such as border authorities and anti-trafficking police play an important role in assisting clients to access appropriate services. It is our hope that, through the use of this directory, survivors of trafficking and returned migrants will have greater choice in, and access to, the support services they require to become self-sufficient, empowered individuals, who are able to rebuild their lives within their communities in Cambodia.

Safe Migration Tips to Share

Potential migrants may come to your organisation to ask about migrating for work. When providing information, you should highlight the following safe migration tips.

Ask lots of questions! Talk to lots of people before you make the decision to migrate, especially your family and friends. Returned migrants, NGOs, Migrant Resource Centres, and other community based organisations can also help answer your questions about what living and working abroad is really like.

Migrate legally. Legal migrants have a passport, visa, and work permit and sign a contract with their employer. You are more likely to be protected in your home country and the workplace if you are legal. Irregular migrants are at much greater risk of being exploited and may be arrested, detained in the destination country and deported.

Safe Migration Tips

Check with the authorities and others that your recruitment agency is licensed and has a good reputation. Review the contract with the agency and the contract with the employer. Keep receipts for all payments made in the recruitment and migration process.

Sign a contract with your employer. Make sure you understand what is included in the contract. If your recruiter or employer is asking you to work without a contract, it is a warning sign that your employer may be planning to take advantage of you.

Make photocopies of your important documents - including your passport, visa, work permit, and signed contract – leave one copy with your family and another with the Migrant Worker Resource Centre or an NGO.

Safe Migration Tips

Know whom to contact if you have a problem abroad.

Make a list of important contact details prior to your departure. Leave one copy with your family and take the other with you. This includes numbers of the Embassy, NGOs, trade unions, migrant associations, your family, friends and anyone else who might assist you in your host country. Try to memorize at least one of these numbers!

Stay in contact. Regularly communicate with your family and friends to let them know you are safe. Try to meet others and build a network of support in your host country.

For more information, visit a Migrant Worker Resource Centre (MRC) or drop-in centre. Staff have been trained to give advice on migrating for work – the jobs available, potential risks and benefits, the migration process, rights at work, and how to keep safe. They provide help understanding contracts, passports and visas requirements. The MRC can also refer migrants to other service providers that do work related to migration, like vocational training or language lessons or medical or health checks.

Contact details for the MRCs listed in this referral booklet:

- Kampong Cham province (see page 31)
- Prey Veng province (see page 34)
- Battambang province (see page 16)

Phnom Penh Overview

Phnom Penh is the capital of Cambodia. The majority of services for trafficked persons and returned migrants are centralized here, including head offices for regional service providers. A full range of services are available in Phnom Penh, such as legal counseling, investigation and prosecution assistance, recovery and psychological support services (including several emergency and mid-term shelters), medical clinics, and options for vocational training and employment placement agencies. The ministries of the Royal Government of Cambodia are also based in the capital, as is the headquarters of the Anti-Human Trafficking and Juvenile Protection police (023 997 919 or 017 276 222), where complaints and cases of human trafficking can be reported.

North West Cambodia Overview

The North West (NW) region of Cambodia borders both Thailand and Lao PDR. Apart from Phnom Penh, the NW region has the widest range of services available to survivors of trafficking and returned migrants, especially in the provinces of Siem Reap, Battambang, and Banteay Meanchey (which includes Poipet City, the international border crossing between Thailand and Cambodia). Services in these three provinces include legal assistance, recovery and psychological services, vocational training, job placement assistance, medical clinics, and drug rehabilitation programs. There is also a Migrant Resource Center in the provincial town of Battambang (see page 16).

North East Cambodia Overview

The North East (NE) region of Cambodia borders both Vietnam and Lao PDR. A number of ethnic minority groups live in this region and very few direct services are available for trafficked persons and returned migrants. Legal assistance is available in most provinces, and one recovery and psychosocial support service provider is in Stung Treng province. The nearest locations for additional recovery and psychological support services, as well as vocational training opportunities, are Kampong Cham province (see page 31) and Siem Reap province (see page 20).
