About Chab Dai

Founded in Cambodia in 2005, Chab Dai (“joining hands” in Khmer) aims to address human trafficking and exploitation through coalition building, advocacy and research. In addition to our work in Cambodia, Chab Dai has offices in the USA, Canada and UK.

OUR VISION

Chab Dai’s vision to see individuals, organizations and agencies work together toward addressing human trafficking and exploitation is built on the Biblical framework of working together as the body of Christ, in addition to the global framework for human rights. This vision has been expanded from our work in Cambodia, and we now work with coalitions and partners in over 20 countries.

OUR CORE VALUES

*Knowledge for Sharing
Advocacy for Justice
Support for Strength
Hope for the Future*

Collaboration in Practice

Collaboration is at the heart of what we do.

Chab Dai is more than a network. We operate as a “learning community” because this recognizes the limitations of individuals and organizations working in isolation. Due to our collaborative ethos and coalition structure, Chab Dai can map emerging good practices and patterns of trafficking and exploitation at macro-, meso- and grassroots levels more so than organizations who work on their own.

The value of a network is greater than the sum of its parts.

Chab Dai seeks to raise the standards of counter-trafficking stakeholders to address trafficking pro-actively rather than re-actively. By collaborating with organizations and stakeholders that hold similar goals in addressing exploitation, we can combine resources and experience in addition to establishing a strong commitment to supporting one another’s work.

CAMBODIA

Advocacy & Research

Butterfly Longitudinal Research

A longitudinal study examining the (re-)integration process for survivors of sex trafficking in Cambodia over a ten-year period. The overriding objective is to understand (re-)integration from the perspective of survivors themselves.

- ✓ In 2014, we completed our 5th year of research
- ✓ Updated methodology to reflect focus and priorities of the project
- ✓ Produced both a working paper (directed toward practitioners) and thematic paper (directed toward wider audiences) on “Resilience: Survivor Experiences and Expressions”

Papers available for download at chabdai.org

“Survivor expressions of resilience demonstrate their ability to adapt in challenging life circumstances.”

Taken from Working Paper: “Resilience: Survivor Experiences & Expressions” p.3

INTERNATIONAL Global Learning Community

Launched in 2011, Global Learning Community aims to document and share lessons learned with global counter-trafficking organizations by supporting, coaching, and assisting international stakeholders in multiple sectors.

Achievements in 2014 include:

- ✓ Partnership, capacity-building and knowledge exchange with over 210 partners across 30 countries
- ✓ Expansion of Freedom Collaborative, including an expansion of library functionality, functionality for coalitions, and creation of Freedom Specialists
- ✓ Establishment of a new partnership with Liberty Asia (Hong Kong) who will oversee future technical development of Freedom Collaborative
- ✓ Expanded engagement with the private sector partners
- ✓ Launch of Freedom Dialogues, a series of podcast-like videos meant to share, expand and spur creating thinking about addressing human trafficking

Chab Dai Around the World

In addition to our founding office in Cambodia, Chab Dai has offices in Canada, the United Kingdom and United States.

- ✓ In early 2014, Chab Dai USA restructured its Board of Directors to represent all of Chab Dai's international offices and changed its name to Chab Dai International
- ✓ In the United States, our office in California continued implementation of Freedom Registry, participated in local coalition-building efforts, and provided various training workshops for government offices and non-profits
- ✓ Chab Dai Canada continued planning for the design and implementation of Freedom Registry Canada and participated in local counter-trafficking efforts in Montreal
- ✓ Chab Dai UK continued fundraising efforts for projects in Cambodia, and continued initial discussions about the development of Freedom Registry UK

For more information about the activities of our international offices go to chabdai.org.
